Scaledenmark offers professional guided tours, workshops and lectures on post-war contemporary architecture in Copenhagen and the Øresund region. The holistic approach of Scandinavian planning, architecture and design is communicated through examples that successfully combine sustainable thinking, social factors and the local context; a recipe that could be adopted anywhere in the world.

Scaledenmark operates as a platform of urban quality consultants, providing architectural tours, as well as supplementary architectural training and study programs. Customized tours, workshops or lectures are offered on for example sustainable architecture, homes for the elderly, social housing, urban renewal and eco-communities. All mediation is based on "edutainment", which implicates a creative mix of education and entertainment – an ideal combination for visualizing abstract ideas by learning from seeing and by understanding through experiencing built reality.

Scaledenmark is located at the new landmark BLOX building on the Copenhagen Harborfront. As a member of BLOXHUB, we promote sustainable urbanization alongside an innovative network of research and design professionals. We are also a proud member of Guiding Architects, an international network for architectural guided tours by professionals. The company's urban quality consultants are trained architects that offer tours, workshops and lectures in German, English, French, Spanish or Danish/Scandinavian.

Scaledenmark's customers are professionals, such as architects, businesspeople, developers, trade missions or institutional organizations, but also private groups interested in Scandinavian sustainable architecture and design.
